Understanding Your Student Class Schedule

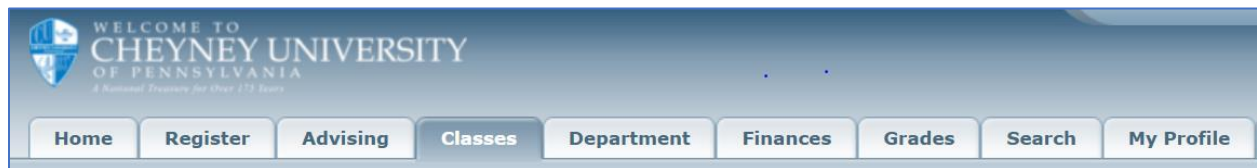

You can access a copy of your class schedule on your PowerCampus Self-Service portal through the CheyneyHub App or on the website at <https://www.cheyney.edu/selfservice>.

On the left side of the window, log into the site using the credentials that you received from IT.

Once you log-in, click on the Classes tab and then click on the Schedule link. Please ensure that you are viewing the current semester (Fall 2020).

You may have an option to adjust your schedule throughout the Add/Drop period each semester. Please check with your academic advisor or Academic Learning Community (GAC120/GAC121) faculty before altering your schedule. To adjust your schedule, click on the Register link and follow the on-screen instructions from there.

Your classes may be delivered in different formats. Carefully review your schedule for the:

- Duration which tells you the class start and end dates.
- Course/Course Type/Section/Course Name which when clicked will provide additional information about the class including a course description, total number of credits, prerequisite courses, and course department. E.g. HCA124/Lecture/01 – Fundamental of Radio Production I.
- Schedule which lets you know the course meeting days and times and/or delivery method (e.g. Online). Please note Online classes with meeting times between 12:00 AM and 5:00 AM are done at your pace, and do not include “live” lectures done at that time.
- Instructor(s) names to let you know the assigned professor of the class. Please know that you can check the Faculty directory online for the professor contact information.

Please see below for examples of different class delivery formats for the semester. If you have questions about your class schedule, you may reach out to your academic advisor, department chair, Academic Learning Community faculty, Registrar’s Office, or the Provost’s Office.
